GAM UNDERGROUND PROJECT

The GAM Underground Project is a covert connection of ideas and images; it is an evocation and at the same time a possible maquette for philosophical architectures that have found their way in the covered passage, as described by Benjamin, in every crossing path under the surface. A way that is an eternally contemporary attitude, capable of reshaping the curves of time, as well as our teleological traditions. And rather than names and works of art, it maps out conceptual passages, inner structures and thresholds, and all the reflections that art history projects onto its own present.
