

Feminism as a design tool

HARRIET HARRISS

Principal Lecturer in Architecture

PhD, MA(RCA) Dipl(AA) RIBA, FRSA, FHEA

Oxford Brookes, UK

Feminism designs with others in mind:
race, gender, language, class, (dis)ability, culture...

Feminism teaches Activism
Disruption Radicalism

Feminism takes a critical position

Feminism concerns learning to design beyond the masculine paradigm

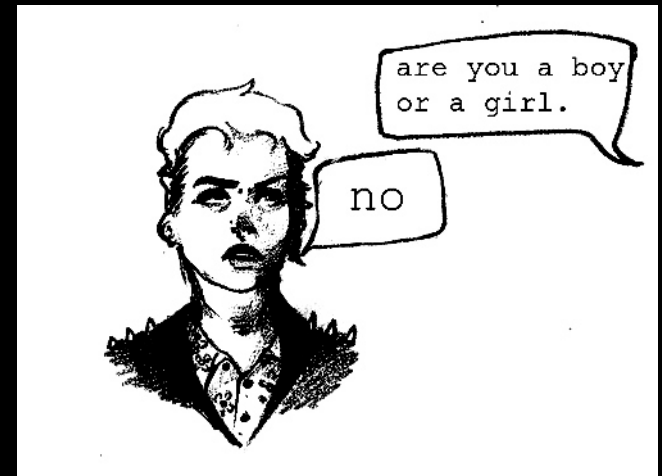

(empathy collaboration, community and evolution, holism and versatility, negotiation and enabling, emotion, experience and responsiveness)

Feminism questions architectures influence on social relations, society and community

Feminism concerns designing beyond the gender binary

Feminism teaches ethics

Feminism identifies the political implications of design and planning

Taken all together feminism:

(1) exposes the problems in current practice/education system

(2) defines a strategy for resistance/change

(3)...[that] feeds forward into the future we want,
not the one we inherited

FUTURE

A signpost with a dark metal post. The sign is a white arrow pointing to the right, with the word 'FUTURE' written in bold, black, uppercase letters on it.

THANK YOU.