Acknowledgements

This book would not have been possible without the generous and rich contributions by the many collaborators, friends, and speakers who supported the research, public events, and workshops that informed its contents. The project "Collective Forms: Neighbourhood Transformations, Spatialised Governmentality and New Communities in China" was funded by the British Academy's Tackling the UK's International Challenges 2017 programme. I would like to express first of all my deep gratitude to the co-investigators Gangyi Tan (Huazhong University of Science and Technology), Yan Tang (Tsinghua University), and Xuefeng He (Wuhan University) and his team members Defu Wang and Xuelin Zhang, as well as the researchers Xiamao Cao, Yuwei Wang, Runze Zhang, Pengyu Chen, Yunshi Zhou, and Yizhuo Gao. I would like to further thank Beatrice Leanza, Yapeng Pu, Yongyi Lu, and Adrian Lahoud for their advice and support of this project.

Special thanks to Jingru (Cyan) Cheng at the Royal College of Art for her tireless efforts as a postdoctoral researcher on the project and co-editor of the book. This book would not exist without her.

Thanks to all the symposium and workshop contributors in Wuhan, Beijing, Shanghai, and London: Raül Avilla Royo, Guohui Cao, Yanwei Chai, Yulin Chen, Jingru (Cyan) Cheng, David Bray, Michael Dutton, Haoyang Fan, Boya Guo, Honghu He, Weixin Huang, Xiaoxi Hui, Sophie Johnson, Alasdair Jones, Yin Liang, Ding Liu, Jian Liu, Jiayan Liu, Tianbao Liu, Yun Liu, Yunbin Lou, Yinghua Lu, Neill McLean Gaddes, Catherine McMahon, Seyithan Ozer, Yapeng Pu, Guillermo Ruiz de Teresa, Francesca Romana Forlini, Gangyi Tan, Zheng Tan, Yan Tang, Justinien Tribillion, Xiaoyuan Wan, Defu Wang, Sophia Woodman, Fulong Wu, Nan Wu, Zuopeng Xiao, Yijing Xu, Jiawei Yan, Miao Zhang, Xuelin Zhang, Yan Zheng, and Zishu Zhou.

Also, thanks to the organisations that have provided us with invaluable support and resources: Huazhong University of Science and Technology, Tsinghua University, Royal College of Art, Hubei Institute of Fine Arts (Xujun Zhan and Xi Zhou), New Architecture (Xiaofeng Li and Yin Fang), Leping Social Entrepreneur Foundation, MAT Office, B/Side Design and The Global School, Geguang Community Residents' Committee and Guanshan Subdistrict Office (Wuhan), Miaosan Community Residents' Committee and Beihu Subdistrict Office (Wuhan), Qinbei Residents' Committee and Hongmei Subdistrict Office (Shanghai), Xinyuan Xili Community Residents' Committee and Zuojiazhuang Subdistrict Office (Beijing). Finally, thanks to Sridevi Purushothaman from Springer Nature and Crisie Yuan from Tongji University Press for all their support in getting this book published.

The publication was financially supported by the Royal College of Art's Research and Knowledge Exchange Research Costs Fund and the School of Architecture.

About the Editors

Sam Jacoby is Professor of Architectural and Urban Design Research and Research Leader of the School of Architecture at the Royal College of Art. His diverse practice-led research focuses on transdisciplinary design research with public and social impact. He is co-founder and former Director of the MPhil in Architecture and Urban Design: Projective Cities at the Architectural Association School of Architecture (2009–2019), and has taught at universities in the UK and Germany. His recent publications include the book Drawing Architecture and the Urban (2016) and the guest co-edited special journal issue 'Collective Forms in China: A Contemporary Review' for New Architecture (2018).

Jingru (Cyan) Cheng is a researcher of the Laboratory for Design & Machine Learning and design tutor in the MA Architecture programme at the Royal College of Art. Cheng's works on Chinese rurality and domesticity (2018) and China's People's Commune (2020) are respectively recognised by the RIBA (Royal Institute of British Architects) President's Awards for Research. Cheng's design research practice does not dwell on a defined subject matter, but rather meandering through architecture, anthropology and art. The wide-ranging themes include, non-canonical histories and socio-spatial models, diverse ways of cultural knowing and being, aesthetic agency, and modes of co-existence and affinity between human and non-human.
