The Crafts Council's Collect art fair is set to return to the Saatchi Gallery for its 2012 edition, with work from 31 international galleries.

The show will be held across two floors of the Gallery, with the Project Space on the second floor hosting ten large-scale installations, with a focus on textiles and furniture.

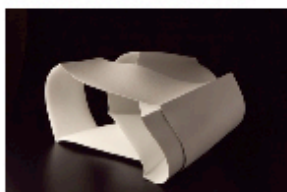

Collect, which has been running since 2001, presents contemporary craft including ceramics, glasses, jewellery and furniture.

The British Museum and the V&A have both acquired works from Collect, and for the last five years the Art Fund Collect scheme has offered UK collectors the opportunity to buy Collect objects for their collections.

In the run-up to the event, the Crafts Council asked Design Week and other organisations to pick their favourite object going on display at Collect.

We plumped for Shigeo Fukuda's lovely Forms in Suspension (P), a Mirrored the porcelain construction.

You can check out the rest of the objects (and the choices of the London Design Festival, DCMs and others) at the Crafts Council's Pinterest page here.

Collect is at the Saatchi Gallery, Kings Place, London W2 0AG from 11-14 May
